Partnering With Industry

Tobyhanna offers engineering expertise, extensive manufacturing and repair capability, and our worldwide network of repair activities directly to private industry partners. With successful partnering programs that range from engineering, fabrication and integration of large shelterized systems to the upgrade of handheld radios, we have the experience required to become a subcontractor to all qualifying industry partners.

The Secretary of the Army has designated Tobyhanna as the Center of Industrial and Technical Excellence (CITE) for communications and electronics, avionics, and missile guidance and control systems. Tobyhanna is also the Air Force Technology Repair Center for command control, communications, and intelligence (C3I) equipment and systems.

With reformulation of military strategy, Tobyhanna will be a strategic player in the war on global terrorism and the support of homeland defense, responding to security requirements on-site, in-the-field and for in-house repair and training needs.

Tracking The Future

As we look to the future, we are committed to anticipating products and services which will be required and to meeting evolving market needs. We renew our dedication every day to our mission of quality, service and value while endeavoring to make our vision a reality.

In the air, on land, or at sea ... wherever our armed forces stand ready to protect our freedom ... in times of peace, in times of crisis, Tobyhanna Army Depot is prepared to lay the foundation for the future.
